Burnsville Performing Arts Center Begins Transition to Ames Center

The Burnsville Performing Arts Center has officially begun transitioning its name to the Ames Center. Patrons of the facility will notice the new name on the center's website, marketing materials, email alerts and show information.

The new name also means a new website URL – www.ames-center.com. The recently updated site will contain all of the same great information that was available previously, and patrons will still be able to access the site using www.burnsvillepac.com for the foreseeable future.

Over the next several months, passersby will also notice new signage identifying the facility as the Ames Center on the building and in Nicollet Commons Park.

The new name signifies the ongoing partnership between the City of Burnsville and the community's supporters of the arts.
